List of Contributors

William Van Andringa is Professor of Roman Archaeology at the University of Lille 3 and currently a research fellow in Helsinki Collegium for Advanced Studies. His recent books include Quotidien des dieux et des hommes: la vie religieuse dans les cités du Vésuve à l’époque romaine (Rome, 2009) and Pompéi: Mythologie et Histoire (Paris 2013). He recently edited La Fin des Dieux (Paris 2014) and La naissance des capitales de cités en Gaule Chevelue (Paris 2015).

Tobias Georges did his doctorate Quam nos divinitatem nominare consuevimus: Die theologische Ethik Peter Abaelards and his habilitation Tertullians Apologeticum. Übersetzung und Kommentierung in church history at the University of Halle. He was junior professor at the interdisciplinary Courant Research Centre EDRIS (Education and Religion from early imperial Roman times to the classical period of Islam), University of Göttingen in 2009-2015, and since 2015, he is Professor of the History of Christianity and its Interreligious Encounters at the University of Göttingen.

Caroline Humfress is Professor in Mediaeval History at University of St Andrews. She has published Orthodoxy and the Courts in Late Antiquity (2007) and The Evolution of the Late Antique World (with Peter Garnsey) (2001). She is currently finishing a monograph Multi-legalism in Late Antiquity for Oxford University Press.

Janneke H. M. de Jong is Assistant Professor in Ancient History at Radboud University Nijmegen. Her special field is Greek papyrology and her doctoral thesis is Emperors in Egypt. The Representation and Perception of Roman Imperial Power in Greek Papyrus Texts from Egypt, AD 193-284 (2006).
Maijastina Kahlos is an historian and a classicist (University of Helsinki). She was a research fellow in Helsinki Collegium for Advanced Studies 2011-2014 and works currently as a research fellow in the Centre of Excellence ‘Reason and Religious Recognition’, funded by the Academy of Finland. She has published the monographs Vettius Agorius Praetextatus: Senatorial Life in Between (AIRF, 2002), Debate and Dialogue: Christian and Pagan Cultures, c. 360-430 (Ashgate, 2007) and Forbearance and Compulsion: Rhetoric of Tolerance and Intolerance in Late Antiquity (Duckworth, 2009) and edited The Faces of the other: Religious Rivalry and Ethnic Encounters in the Later Roman World (Brepols, 2012).

Mika Kajava is Professor of Greek Language and Literature at the University of Helsinki. He was a research fellow in Helsinki Collegium for Advanced Studies 2001-2004. He has published widely on ancient epigraphy, religion and society, recently Studies in ancient oracles and divination (ed., AIRF, 2013).

Sari Kivistö, Docent of Comparative Literature (University of Helsinki) is Director of the Helsinki Collegium for Advanced Studies. She has been a Collegium Fellow in Helsinki in 2004-2007 and 2007-2009, an Academy of Finland Research Fellow in 2009-2014 and Deputy Director of the Helsinki Collegium in 2010-2015. Kivistö’s research interests include the history and theory of satire, Latin and Neo-Latin literature, and the classical traditions. Her previous research projects have focused, for example, on scholarly vices and conflicting disciplines in the early modern universities (The Vices of Learning, 2014, Brill) and on medical satires (Medical Analogy in Latin Satire, 2009, Palgrave Macmillan).

Outi Lehtipuu is a Senior Research Fellow at the Academy of Finland and Lecturer in New Testament and Greek at the University of Helsinki and in 2015–2016 a visiting scholar at Harvard Divinity School. Her most recent publications include Debates over the Resurrection of the Dead: Constructing Early Christian Identity (Oxford University Press, 2015) and People under Power: Early Jewish and Christian Responses to the Roman Empire (ed., Amsterdam University Press, 2015).

Jussi Rantala is a researcher at the University of Tampere. His research interests include questions related to identity, religion, and power in ancient Rome. His doctoral thesis is Maintaining Loyalty, Declaring Continuity, Legitimizing Power. Ludi saeculares of Septimius Severus as a Manifestation of the Golden Age (2013).

Chiara O. Tommasi teaches History of Religions at the University of Pisa. She has published extensively on fifth and sixth century Latin poetry and on ‘esoteric’ trends in Late Antiquity. Her most recent monograph The Bee Orchid. Religione e Cultura in Marziano Capella appeared 2012. She is currently working on a monograph about Lucan and religion, and on a commentary on Arnobius’ Against the Pagans.