Depression and cognitive decline are common, but often overlooked, complicators of type 2 diabetes and further research is needed regarding their optimal treatment and prevention. The risk for both conditions is increased in case of low birth weight. It should be recognised that low birth weight is an additional risk factor and modifier of diabetic complications.